ANDRAS KOLESZAR

MASTER TEACHER
HONORARY ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR

ABOUT

Budapest Campus of Óbuda University. He teaches Descriptive Geometry, Integrated Product Design, Materials Science and Construction for Interior and Fashion Design, and Product Development and Production Engineering in the Apparel Industry.

He has extensive professional experience in the apparel and light industries. He has mentored companies and contributed to the Manufacturer Mentoring Programme of the Hungarian Fashion & Design Agency (HFDA) as a mentor and lecturer. His professional activities include production preparation for fashion collections, pattern construction and modelling, grading, technical documentation, and the integration of digital pre-production systems into existing manufacturing processes.

He has also been involved in product development and light-industry engineering consultancy, and has delivered skills-development training for employees and team leaders of SMEs. In addition, he served as Project Manager for a GINOP-funded prototype development project.
